7) Other information

Since 2013, I have developed a continuous collaboration with the Max-Planck Institute of Legal History (Frankfurt), sending students, participating in research and organizing events. I have returned to the Institute every year with their grants between 2015 and 2019. In December 2022 I will be one of the invited commentators of the Institute's Department II research project in the workshop organised by the Käte Hamburger Kolleg at the University of Münster.

Since 2017, I am principal researcher and current director of Mecila (<https://mecila.net/>), one of the 5 Merian centres worldwide funded by the German government. The centre is interdisciplinary in Humanities, based on a network formed by Universidad La Plata, Colegio de Mexico, Cebrap, USP, University of Cologne, Berlin Ibero-American Institute and the Free University of Berlin. The centre is based in São Paulo. We have received annually around 15 international researchers (senior and junior fellows and doctoral students). A differential of Mecila has been to provide the circulation between researchers from Latin America and Europe.

Both in my collaboration with Max-Planck and at Mecila, I investigate the production of legal, religious and traditional peoples' normativity. Some related activities that can be mentioned in addition to what has already been listed:

2022 - Book Chapter (approved for publication). Title: Translating normative Knowledge: Martin de Azpilcueta and Jesuits in Portuguese America (16th Century). To be published in the Global Legal History of the Iberian Worlds (Max-Planck Institute for Legal History)

2022 - Blog Post at Legal History Insights (Max-Planck Institute for Legal History). Legal regime for a mosaic of differences: 25th anniversary of UNDRIP-experiences in Brasil. <https://legalhistoryinsights.com/legal-regime-for-a-mosaic-of-differences-25th-anniversary-of-undrip-experiences-in-brazil/>

2019 - Collaboration with the entry "Oaths" in the Dictionary of Ibero-American Colonial Canon Law (Max-Planck Institute for Legal History)

2019 - Colloquium Organization. Indian's place is also in the city (University of Sao Paulo, UnB, State University of Roraima)

2018 - Conference at the National Meeting of Traditional Peoples: between mobility and borders (State University of Roraima).
